

Seizing the Moment:

Exploring just and sustainable pandemic recovery through community-campus partnerships

Our path of connecting and learning...

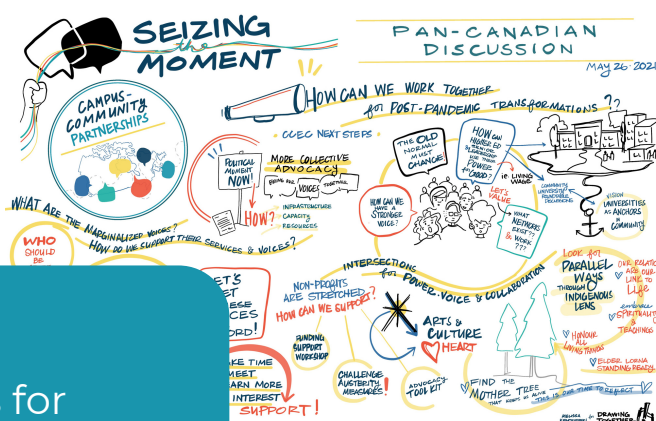

Seizing the Moment Workshop

May 25-26, 2021

This two-day workshop included presentations and discussion sessions from across Canada.

Access workshop recordings here

Access workshop regional discussion summaries here

Identifying opportunities for collaboration and collective action to address large-scale challenges

June 24, 1:00 ET
ACCESS THE RECORDING HERE

Session participants discussed how they are collaborating to address current challenges and responding to concerns through collective action.

Adapting to the Moment: Tools, Tips and Practices for a New Era of Community-Campus Partnerships

October 28, 1:00 ET
REGISTER HERE

This session will present the experiences of McMaster University's Office of Community Engagement in adapting program activities to respond to the current realities facing community partners. Participants will be encouraged to share how they continue to adapt in the moment.

Building a post-pandemic network: Working together to transform communities

November 3, 1:00 ET
REGISTER HERE

During this session we will explore options to continue the community-campus conversation to respond to evolving pandemic contexts across Canada. The event will include presentations about successes and challenges in building effective networks.

Quebec-based Seizing the Moment workshop

November 18, 1:30 ET
Details coming soon!

Post-workshop webinars

Designing (and funding) a pan-Canadian proposal to activate ideas from the 'Seizing the Moment' project

November 24, 1:00 ET
REGISTER HERE

During this session we will explore potential parameters for an action research project that is responsive to community concerns and strategies related to pandemic recovery and societal transformation, and that involves a wide range of non-profit sectors, marginalized groups, and academic institutions.

Want to learn more? Visit the Seizing the Moment web page at <https://ccecanada.ca/seizing-the-moment/>